Canada’s doctors and nurses urge urgent action to address health workforce crisis

Introduction

The Canadian Medical Association (CMA) is committed to ensuring that all Canadians have access to a high-quality, accessible and sustainable health system. However, we are concerned about the growing crisis in our health workforce. The CMA has heard from doctors, nurses and other health care professionals across the country about the challenges they are facing, including overcrowded hospitals, understaffed units and a lack of support and resources.

Issues

1. shortage of health professionals
2. increasing workload
3. lack of funding for training programs
4. inadequate support for mental health

Recommendations

1. Increase funding for training programs and scholarships
2. Provide mental health support to all health care workers
3. Implement policies to ensure a sustainable health workforce

Conclusion

The CMA urges the federal government to take immediate action to address the health workforce crisis. We believe that by investing in training programs and providing support for mental health, we can ensure that our health system is able to meet the needs of all Canadians.
