THIRD-PARTY FORMS
(Update 2017)

RATIONAL

In Canada's fragmented health care system, a third-party form is a tool that enables the physician to document the medical reasons for a patient's absence from work, school, and other activities. These forms are often used by employers and insurers to verify the necessity of leaving work or school due to medical reasons. The Canadian Medical Association (CMA) has developed a policy on third-party forms to ensure they are used appropriately and to protect the privacy of patients.

SCOPE OF POLICY

This policy applies to all physicians and third-party organizations that require third-party forms to verify medical necessity. It is intended to guide the appropriate use of third-party forms and to ensure that the health and privacy of patients are protected.

GENERAL PRINCIPLES

 Honduras

1. The physician has a professional and ethical duty to his or her patient. - Only provide third-party forms that objectively reflect your professional opinion after a proper examination. - Only

PHYSICIAN COMPENSATION

Confidentiality

Policy on the confidentiality of physician compensation is essential to maintain public confidence in the profession. The confidentiality of compensation is necessary to protect physician autonomy, integrity and the public trust. The physician compensation information should be protected from misuse and use in a manner that is consistent with the physician's legitimate interests. The confidentiality of physician compensation information should be maintained in accordance with federal, provincial and territorial privacy legislation.

Confidentiality Policy

Confidentiality Policy and the CMA's Code of Ethics. Physicians should maintain reasonable confidentiality of compensation information. This includes maintaining a secure environment for the storage and use of compensation information. Physicians should ensure that compensation information is not disclosed without the express consent of the individual.

Physicians should ensure that compensation information is not disclosed without the express consent of the individual. For example, this includes maintaining a secure environment for the storage and use of compensation information.
