Dear Mr. Boudreau, MDCM, MD, FRCCPs
Chairman of the Panel

I am writing on behalf of the Canadian Medical Association (CMA) to express our concerns regarding the ethical and medical aspects of the assisted dying debate in Canada. As a national medical association, we believe it is our duty to provide guidance on this important issue.

The CMA supports the principle that health care providers should respect the autonomy of patients and ensure that they have access to quality health care. However, we also believe that assisted dying should be restricted to situations where the patient’s condition is terminal and where the patient has made an informed decision to cease life support.

We are concerned that the proposed legislation does not adequately account for the potential risks associated with assisted dying, including the risk of coercion or undue influence.

We strongly urge the Federal Government to consider the medical, ethical, and legal implications of any legislative changes before moving forward.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Managing Director, Canadian Medical Association
