CMA Statement on the Governance of Health Information: A patient-partnered health information governance framework
https://policybase.cma.ca/link/policy14485

WHAT IT IS
The purpose of this statement is to describe the core components of a patient-centred, patient-partnered health information governance framework. The framework is intended to address the principles of patient-centred, patient-partnered health information governance in a way that is accessible to health care providers, administrators, and policy makers.

1. The framework should be developed in consultation with patients and their representatives.
2. The framework should be developed in consultation with health care providers, administrators, and policy makers.

WHAT IT IS NOT
The framework is not intended to replace existing policies or guidelines. It is not intended to be a comprehensive guide to health information governance. However, it is intended to provide a framework for developing policies and guidelines that are consistent with the principles of patient-centred, patient-partnered health information governance.
