Auditing Physician Billings

Purpose:
The CMA has developed a model proposal for the creation of a national system to audit physician billings. This system will allow physicians to participate in reducing the potential for errors in billing and will provide an opportunity for physicians to review billing practices.

Background:
In response to physician concerns about the potential for errors in billing, the CMA has developed a model proposal for the creation of a national system to audit physician billings. This system will allow physicians to participate in reducing the potential for errors in billing and will provide an opportunity for physicians to review billing practices.

Recommendation:
The national system to audit physician billings should be implemented on a voluntary basis, with physicians being able to participate on a regular basis.

Appendix:
A Manual for Physician Billings is available for use by physicians.

Disclosure of COVID-19 Vaccination Status by Physicians

Inkey action recommendations:
1. The Canadian Medical Association (CMA) recommends that physicians continue to maintain open and honest communication with their patients about their vaccination status.
2. Physicians should consider providing written consent forms for patients who wish to share their vaccination status.
3. Physicians should not be required to disclose their vaccination status to non-health care entities, unless required by law.
4. The CMA recommends that physicians continue to provide culturally appropriate and accessible vaccination information to their patients.

Recommendations for the implementation of the CMA's recommendations:
- Physicians should ensure that their practices are compliant with provincial and territorial public health guidelines.
- The CMA should provide ongoing support and resources for physicians to help them implement these recommendations.
- Patients should be encouraged to take active roles in their health care, including asking their physicians about their vaccination status.
