Executive Summary

The comments of the Canadian Medical Association bear several concerns. First, there is the need for a clear and comprehensive understanding of the provisions of the Bill. In particular, the definition of personal information needs to be clarified. It is essential to ensure that the provisions of the Bill do not result in a decrease in the quality of health care.

The Bill should also protect the confidentiality of personal information. This is crucial to maintaining the trust of patients. The Canadian Medical Association recommends that the Bill should include provisions that ensure the confidentiality of patient records.

Finally, the Canadian Medical Association recommends that the Bill should be amended to include provisions that address the issue of consent. It is essential to ensure that patients are fully informed and understand the implications of the provisions of the Bill.

In conclusion, the Canadian Medical Association recommends that the Bill should be amended to include provisions that ensure the confidentiality of personal information, the protection of patient records, and the issue of consent. It is essential to ensure that the provisions of the Bill do not result in a decrease in the quality of health care.
