CMA Statement on Racism

The Canadian Medical Association (CMA) is committed to a fair and just health system for all Canadians, inclusive of all racial and ethnic groups. This commitment is based on the principles of respect, dignity, and justice for all people. It is grounded in the human rights and ethical obligations that define the medical profession.

The CMA recognizes the long history of racism and discrimination in Canada, including systemic racism and institutional racism. These forms of racism have contributed to health inequities and disparities for racialized populations.

The CMA is committed to addressing and eliminating racism in the health care system. This includes promoting equity, diversity, and inclusion, and ensuring that health care providers and organizations are accountable for their actions and practices.

The CMA supports the development and implementation of policies and programs that will reduce health inequities and improve health outcomes for all Canadians, particularly for racialized populations.
