CMA Statement on Racism

The Canadian Medical Association (CMA) is committed to promoting health and well-being for all Canadians. The health of all Canadians is influenced by social, economic, and environmental factors. Addressing these factors is essential to achieving health equity.

The CMA recognizes that racism and discrimination are forms of mistreatment that can negatively impact health outcomes. Racism can manifest in various forms, including institutional, interpersonal, and cultural.

The CMA supports efforts to reduce systemic racism and promote equity in health care. This includes advocating for policies and practices that address disparities in health outcomes and ensuring that health care systems are inclusive and respectful.

The CMA encourages health care professionals to reflect on their own biases and to work towards creating a more inclusive and equitable environment for all patients.
