PALLIATIVE CARE

Introduction:
Palliative care is an approach that aims to improve the quality of life of patients and their families facing the problems associated with life-threatening illness. It involves a proactive dialogue with patients and their families to discuss future care with all physical, emotional and spiritual needs. It recognizes the importance of good care, no matter what the diagnosis, and focuses on making the most of remaining time.

General principles:
1. All patients require access to palliative care, regardless of age, sex, race, diagnosis or social status.
2. Palliative care is an integral part of standard medical care.
3. Palliative care is effective and can improve the quality of life for patients and their families.
4. Palliative care is available to all patients, regardless of their prognosis.
5. Palliative care is a comprehensive approach to patient care, involving all members of the healthcare team.

Palliative care is a holistic approach to care that addresses the physical, emotional, social and spiritual needs of patients and their families. It aims to improve the quality of life and to provide relief from suffering. Palliative care is provided by specialized teams, including doctors, nurses, social workers, and chaplains, who work together to meet the needs of patients and their families.
